Water Main Installation Plus Road Construction: More Traffic Congestion

The Borough can look forward to even greater-than-anticipated traffic congestion over the next four to six months as Elizabethtown Water Company installs new underground water mains to serve downtown Princeton and Princeton University.

Elizabethtown has agreed to accelerate the installation of the mains in an effort to help alleviate Princeton's water problems. The water company work will be in addition to some street reconstruction already planned by the Borough for this same time period.

A new underground water main will run from Terhune to Ewing, Linden Lane, Nassau, Murray Place, and Prospect. New lines will also be installed on Hamilton from Linden to Walnut, and on a section of Wiggins.

Yet another underground water main will be laid under Witherspoon, from Wiggins to Nassau.

Council President Marvin Reed said the Borough wants to coordinate its street rehabilitation with Elizabethtown so that the Borough work gets done after the new pipes are installed. He added that the Borough also wants to manage what will be a "horrendous traffic problem."

However, Borough Engineer Carl Peters said he sees no major impact on the traffic flow during the work, except for intersections with Nassau and at Witherspoon and Wiggins.

For its part, the Borough plans an October starting date for road reconstruction of Wiggins and Hamilton, from Witherspoon to Harrison. Since part of this area has also been targeted for excavation by Elizabethtown, Mr. Peters plans to sit down with

Medical Center Addition Approved If Parking Problems Are Resolved

The Planning Board granted conditional approval last Tuesday for the addition by Princeton Medical Center of two floors to the hospital's J-wing and for the expansion of the existing service building.

The vote for site plan approval and a parking variance was unanimous, with Michael Landau, the newest Planning Board member, abstaining. The approval was conditional, however, on a number of considerations relating to parking problems in the neighborhood.

Frank M. Slimak, Borough Zoning Officer, presented a report detailing the parking requirements under Borough and Township ordinances. The J-wing is located in the Borough, but the hospital lies in both municipalities. The total number of required parking spaces on the site is 1053. The addition of 44,655 square feet of construction requires an additional 101 parking spaces.

Through its parking garage (397 spaces), employee parking lot on Franklin Avenue (275 spaces), hospital parking deck for doctors and staff (33), new space being created at the corner of Henry Avenue (102 spaces), and other nooks and crannies, the Medical Center has some 812 spaces on-site. This is a "deficiency" of 342 spaces, according to ordinance requirements for hospital and medical office use.

However, a survey of these spaces at peak hours revealed that 73 of these spaces were empty during the morning and 47 during the late afternoon. Half of these empty spaces were in the garage itself, Mr. Slimak told the board.

Borough and Township parking rules also say that the number of required off-street parking spaces may be reduc-

Ban Eased on Water Use But Restrictions Remain Until 15th of September

Effective this Wednesday, the ban on outdoor water use will be eased to permit odd-even watering of lawns and washing of cars, but restrictions will remain in effect through September 15.

Township Committee passed a resolution last Monday setting forth the new restrictions, and Borough Council was expected to adopt a similar resolution Tuesday night as TOWN TOPICS went to press.

Outdoor water use will be permitted at even-numbered locations — including businesses — on even-numbered days, and at odd-numbered locations on odd-numbered days of the month. Cars may be washed at home on odd or even days according to street number, provided that the washing is done with a bucket, can, or hand-held hose equipped with a nozzle which will shut off automatically when dropped.

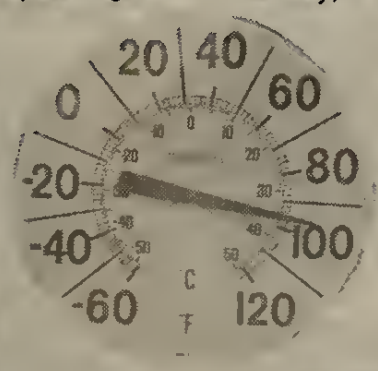
Try to Remember, Oh, Try to Remember The Torrents and Floods in July of 1975

Even though David Ludlum views himself as a weather historian rather than a forecaster, he must have an inside track on what's ahead. Why else would he have left for Northern Alaska on the day the hot, dry spell began, to return to Princeton the day before it started to end?

Mr. Ludlum — back on Riverside Drive from an ocean that was ice and splendid views of Mt. McKinley — pointed out that the last good rain happened on June 4, Reunion Saturday. He sees some mid-week rain, but said it will take more than one heavy rain to break the dry spell and refill the ground water.



The heat, he said, has broken some date records, "but the first two weeks of July, 1911, were hotter than this."

It was 94 degrees in the shade of his backyard on Monday. On the airport runway in Newark, however, the temperature soared to 102. It was 100 degrees on the Philadelphia Airport runway, and 100 in New York City — on the rock in Central Park where Manhattan meteorologists take their readings.

In July, 1975, the weather in Princeton was as different as it could possibly get — barring a mid-July snowfall. On July 14, nine inches of rain fell in 24 hours. Just six days later, another six inches came down on the already soaked town.

During the first storm, a couple and their daughter were rescued from their low-lying home on Meadowbrook Drive by a boat from the First Aid and Rescue Squad. Later in the day, a Township woman and her two children, trapped in their car at The Great Road near Winfield Drive, were rescued with ropes.

Roadways were rivers of rushing water, with which have been under construction, or which have been drained for repair before July 1, may fill them between 11 p.m. and 5 a.m., as scheduled and permitted by the Fire Chief. Use of fire hydrants or the flushing of sewers is prohibited except as scheduled and permitted by the Fire Chief.

The neighboring municipalities of Lawrence, Plainsboro and West Windsor are expected to enact similar odd-even restrictions, if they have not already done so. In announcing the new set of restrictions for Princeton, Township Mayor Kate Litvack made it clear that the partial lifting was possible partly because of the cooperation of neighboring municipalities and partly because the critical water pressure and volume problem that existed 2½ weeks ago had stabilized.

"If the situation in Princeton should return to critical low pressure and low volume, all towns would restore more stringent restrictions," Mayor Litvack said. She added that during a meeting with officials from neighboring municipalities, the possibility of limiting the hours for outside water use was discussed but rejected.

"What we don't want is a surge of water use all at the same time," she said. "We hope people will use water judiciously and at different times of the day." Mayor Litvack said that Elizabethtown Water Company would be enclosing a letter to all its rate-paying customers describing how to water lawns and gardens effectively and outlining water conservation and usage techniques.

The letter also explains why the ban on unlimited outdoor water use must remain in effect until September 15, when the first of several steps to improve the water distribution system to this area is expected to be completed.

officials of the water company to work on scheduling. "We won't reconstruct anything until they have done with the work," he said. Mr. Peters has already asked Elizabethtown to put Wiggins on the top of its agenda.

At a meeting last week, Elizabethtown officials told representatives of the Borough and Township that the company hopes to complete construction within six to eight weeks of a line from its Montgomery pumping station to Plainsboro and West Windsor. This would provide water to these municipalities without having to drain from the Princeton system.

Mr. Reed pointed out, however, that both the new mains in Princeton and the line to West Windsor and Plainsboro will distribute only as much water as is received by the Montgomery pumping station. "Until we actually get more water there, it looks as though we can't be assured of a safe system," he said.

Elizabethtown, he said, plans to put in a new 60-inch main from Bridgewater to Hillsborough, and eventually to Montgomery, to serve the region. "We say that we cannot handle as much development as is planned until and unless this 60-inch main is completed."

At last Thursday's Council meeting, Mr. Reed reported that hydrant pressure was back up and holding, but was not as high as the Fire Department would like. "Hydrants are at a near level of safety, but every once in a while we get a low reading."

Fire Commissioner and Council Member Mark Freda viewed the problem somewhat more darkly than did Mr. Reed. "The pressure is still so low," he said, "that if sprinklers went on there wouldn't be enough pressure to fight fires."

major Borough intersections impassable. Hamilton was under water from Snowden to Harrison. The house by the old Kingston Mill was completely surrounded by water, and people were canoeing there.

On Sunday, July 20, the rains fell on residents still in the process of cleaning up from the Monday deluge. Township Police Chief Frederick Porter said that, at one period, all roads in and out of Princeton were closed.

Old trees fell like matchsticks; first on Nassau opposite Chambers, then on Chestnut and John. At 2:30 in the morning, a large tree at Morven fell across the Borough Hall parking lot.

In the Township, two Westerly Road families were evacuated from their homes, and a Mansgrove Road family was advised to leave their home because water was almost touching electrical boxes.

Next to the TOWN TOPICS article about the second storm was a little box that showed remarkable foresight. It read, in part, "Some future July, when it hasn't rained for three weeks and lawns and throats are parched, residents of the Princeton area may wish for rain again."

Scheduled Public Hearings on Construction Ban Ordinance Are Postponed Until After Consideration by Planning Board

Scheduled public hearings by Township Committee and Borough Council on a proposed six-month ban on new construction applications have been postponed until the ordinance has been considered by the Planning Board, as required by State and municipal land use law. The hearings were originally set for last Monday and Tuesday respectively. The Township hearing is now expected to be held on Monday, July 25, the Borough hearing on Tuesday, July 26. The ban would apply to all applications requiring Zoning or Planning Board approval.

The proposed ordinance was introduced by Committee and Borough Council at the height of the water pressure crisis at the end of June on the grounds that increased demand because of development and lack of adequate piping were causing the low pressure and volume.

Committee may make an amendment to the proposal, exempting small residential construction, such as porches and decks, which does not affect water use. This amendment could be discussed at Committee meeting this Monday and could still be referred to the Planning Board in time for the July 21 meeting, according to Township attorney Edwin Schmierer.

———

Also Postponed. Committee also voted to delay a public hearing on reducing the speed limit on Terhune Road and Grover Avenue to 25 miles per hour, pending further radar study by the police department and clarification of which section of Terhune Road the reduction is intended for.

Committee also agreed to postpone introducing the mandatory cluster ordinance, but did not name a date. This ordinance specifies on which areas of certain large tracts in the Township future development could take place in order to protect the environmental or historical areas on the rest of the tract.

Mayor Kate Litvack told Committee of a letter with new information about the Tusculum property, one of the tracts targeted for mandatory clustering. Mayor Litvack did not divulge who wrote the letter, or to whom it was sent, but said that under the terms of the will of Mrs. Ario Pardee, the late owner of Tusculum, there are restrictions on the house and the 25 surrounding acres through the lifetime of Mrs. Pardee's youngest grandchildren and 21 years beyond.

The proposed mandatory cluster ordinance and the maps that have been prepared specifying where future development should and should not take place treat the entire 83-acre Tusculum tract as a whole, Mayor Litvack said.

TOPICS
Of the Town

Given the long-term restrictions on part of the property, she said, "I believe there should be further discussion as to whether Tusculum should be included (in the proposed ordinance)."

The Friends of Princeton Open Space propose to acquire 56 acres of the tract, excluding the house and 25 surrounding acres. The Friends propose to pay for the acquisition by allowing limited development on some of the property. The Friends are also asking the Township to apply for a Greenacres loan to buy about five acres so that there would be private and public funds involved, and they would then donate the balance of the property, about 20 acres, to the Township.

A first step in the somewhat complicated process was taken Monday night when an ordinance was introduced setting up the mechanism for the Township to swap one acre of the John Witherspoon Woods for 2½ nearby acres from the Tusculum property. The swap would create a more developable lot in a narrow section of the U-shaped 56-acre property. The public hearing on the proposal will be June 25.

Difficult Soils. Benedict Yedlin, developer of the Andrews-Foulet tract across Cherry Hill Road from Tusculum, questioned the wisdom of going ahead with the land swap when, in his view, there is little chance of obtaining positive percolation tests that would permit on-site septic systems to sewer the tract. Mr. Yedlin said he was concerned, as a neighbor, about malfunctioning septic systems.

Wendy Mager, speaking for the Friends, said his concerns were "premature" and the Friends would only permit whatever development appropriate to the site. It was pointed out that sewer lines exist not far from the site, although waiting for sewer treatment capacity might take time.

Other Business. In other business, Committee approved the acquisition of land at the end of Mt. Lucas Road on which the pumping station for the new north ridge sewer line will be built. And the Township representative to the Stony Brook Regional Sewerage Authority, John Werth, was invited to give his views on the Authority.

Mr. Werth labelled as "encouraging news" the fact that the Authority's governing board had agreed it would not accept any application from Plainsboro for property which was not already included in the sewer service area through that municipality's agreement with South Brunswick. South Brunswick is a member of the SBRSA, while Plainsboro is not.

This would exclude Princeton Forrestal Center's Princeton

Nursery lands in Plainsboro, as well as a large Linpro residential development. Mr. Werth said he would like to see the SBRSA sewer service agreement amended so that before large tracts are accepted, the application would have to go before the municipality. He spoke of the odor control measures undertaken by the SBRSA and predicted that within a year or two smells from the River Road treatment plan would no longer be a problem off-site.

However, in Mr. Werth's view, "the Authority is not sufficiently responsive to the needs and desires of the municipalities." He said the upstream communities of Pennington and Hopewell have little in common with the downstream communities of West Windsor, the two Princetons and South Brunswick.

He said that the Authority was designed to avoid parochialism between municipalities, but one kind of parochialism had been replaced by another, which he said "may be worse."

A Major New Facility Is Planned by Squibb

Squibb Corporation plans to build a major new facility in the Princeton Forrestal Center to serve as headquarters for its United States pharmaceutical marketing operations.

Squibb has purchased a 106-acre site along Scudders Mill Road opposite Merrill Lynch, on which it proposes to build a 1.16 million square-foot facility. A concept plan for developing the site has been filed with the Plainsboro Planning Board and will be presented in a public meeting Monday, August 1.

According to Squibb officials, the Princeton Forrestal Center site was chosen because it is midway between Lawrenceville, where Squibb's worldwide headquarters and the Squibb Institute for Medical Research are located on Route 206, and New Brunswick, where Squibb's largest manufacturing facility is located. Three years ago, the Plainsboro Planning Board approved plans by the DeMatteis Company for a one million square-foot speculative office building on 92 acres of the site. DeMatteis subsequently dropped its development plans, but the approval was extended beyond the normal three-year vesting period and is valid through 1989.

The new complex will serve as headquarters for Squibb's United States operations. Long range plans call for the eventual development of about 1.16 million square feet of office space, with parking for 3,340 cars. Squibb expects to build 750,000 square feet in the first phase of construction.

Number of Employees. Construction is expected to begin in 1989, with the first phase completed in 1991. Phase I will employ 1,300 people, and the total facility is expected to accommodate 1,600 people. The cost of construction is estimated at $215 million for the entire facility, with land acquisition cost set at $27.5 million.

The Hillier Group has been selected to design the new facility, which would be built in a U-shaped configuration of six wings or modules radiating out from three sides. The marketing companies which make up Squibb United States and Squibb College, a training operation, would each be housed within a module. Those companies are presently located in leased offices throughout the area.

The site plan for the new facility incorporates a four-acre pond, partly to take advantage of a low area on the site and partly as a tie-in with the Squibb facility on Route 206, which also features a man-made pond. The site plan intrudes on more of the existing woodland than did the De Matteis plan, but its authors, including Roger Wells, landscape planner and architect, maintain that the proposed plan "incorporates more screening, special landscape amenities and is less visually dominating."

Both plans show a floor-area-ratio of 25 percent, the maximum allowed under present zoning. Floor-area-ratio (FAR) is the ratio of the square footage of the building to the site dimension. One of the issues raised in the concept plan is whether garages, basement storage or mechanical areas, rooftop mechanical areas, enclosed pedestrian bridges and the entry lobby atrium are included in the FAR calculation.

Those planning the new Squibb facility maintain that they are not included, but if the Planning Board disagrees, the building square footage would rise and so would the FAR percentage.

Parking Structures. Employee parking would be located in two multi-level parking structures which will be "shelfed" into the sloping grade and hidden in the woods or behind landscaped berms.

One garage will contain 2,200 cars, the other 1,100 cars. Another 30 or 40 spaces will be provided in a visitor parking lot in the main entry court. Plainsboro Township requires one space for every 250 feet of gross floor area. Squibb is planning one space for every 346 square feet, suggesting that carpooling, normal absenteeism, public transportation and the nature of the use will yield a smaller employee population than for a typical speculative office building.

Another issue raised in the concept plan document is the fact that parking spaces in the garage are proposed to be eight- or 8½-feet wide rather than the regulation nine feet.

Six tennis courts and a fitness center are proposed at the facility, along with jogging trails and ball fields. An art gallery and the cafeteria will overlook the pond, just as they do at the Lawrence Township facility. A berm along Scudders Mill Road will hide the building from the road, except for one view across the pond.

Two New Traffic Lights. According to the traffic consultant, Orth Rodgers Thompson & Associates, traffic lights "will probably be necessary" at the intersection of the Squibb facility entrance from Scudders Mill Road with one of two Merrill Lynch entrances, as well as at the Merrill Lynch driveway further east.

Wastewater from the site would be conveyed via the South Brunswick Township collection systems to the River Road treatment plant of the Stony Brook Regional Sewerage Authority. The necessary endorsements and permits for sewerage collection and treatment were obtained under the previously approved DeMatteis site plan and will not be affected by the present plan, the concept plan asserted.

Deliveryman Is Robbed Of $150 Sunday Morning

An 18-year-old deliveryman for Pizza Escort on Witherspoon Street was robbed of $150 as he completed his route early Sunday morning.

According to police, the driver, a Princeton resident, was getting out of his parked vehicle at approximately 2 a.m. when he was approached by two men. They shoved him against the wall of an office building, grabbed the small bag he was carrying and fled. The victim, who was not injured, entered the pizza store and called police.

The suspects are both described as black males with large builds. One is listed as about 6-3, the second at 5-8.

Worker Charged in Theft. A 25-year-old Cream Ridge man, employeed by a firm doing renovation work at a Hamilton Avenue home, has been charged with theft and criminal trespass.

The employee, David Pijak, has been released, pending action by a Mercer County Grand Jury. Police said he was alone in the house at the time of the theft early last week while the owner was away for two hours.

According to Capt. Thomas Michaud, the owner, upon his return, called police when he discovered that $1,000 had been stolen from his bedroom.

The subsequent investigation by Ptl. Steven Riccitello and Sgt. Donald Dawson revealed that while work was being done on other parts of the house, Pijak allegedly entered the bedroom without authorization, discovered the money and stole it.

Police were able to recover $760 which Pijak had hidden in his car and outside the house, but they have not been able to locate the remaining $240, Capt. Michaud reported.

TRENTON ROUNDUP

Auto Insurance Reform

The State Assembly gave final legislative approval to an automobile insurance reform bill, which will now go to Gov. Thomas H. Kean for his consideration. Leading legislators said that the Governor has agreed to make changes in the bill. These, they say, would appeal to both Republicans and Democrats, thus allowing a compromise and a potential end to a 2½-year stalemate.

The measure creates a mandatory "verbal threshold," which means persons may not sue for pain and suffering unless the accident resulted in death or serious, debilitating injuries. This clause is expected to lower rates.

A $175-per-car charge would be imposed on all policies to help hail out the Joint Underwriting Association, which has a deficit in excess of $2 billion. The JUA offers insurance to motorists who cannot obtain coverage on the open market.

The Governor is expected to consider the legislation the middle of next week.

Meanwhile, Premiums to Rise

The State insurance commissioner has granted a 13.1 percent rate increase that will increase auto insurance premiums an average of $95 for more than half of New Jersey's motorists.

Effective August 1, the increase will raise the average single-car policy from $784 to $879. A recently approved surcharge for the Joint Underwriters Association will bring that average up even higher, to $952.

Insurance Commissioner Kenneth Merin granted the increase to the Insurance Services Office, which represents 200 insurance companies. Rate increases are pending for at least another 830,000 drivers.

Singing the Blues

The State Assembly has approved a rate increase averaging 22 percent for about 1.5 million customers of Blue Cross and Blue Shield of New Jersey. The bill is intended to save the State's largest health insurer from financial collapse by allowing it more flexibility to change rates.

The increase will affect only persons who belong to groups of fewer than 50 people.

Blue Cross/Blue Shield officials predicted financial ruin within several months unless the company received immediate help. Since November, the State has granted three rate increases to the firm for policies covering small groups and individuals.

Anti-Pollution Bills Signed

Among five anti-pollution measures signed into law by Gov. Thomas Kean is one that bars municipal sewage authorities from dumping sludge in the ocean after early 1991.

The law will stop sewage authorities in New Jersey from using the ocean dump site 106 miles off New Jersey after March 17, 1991. This is the day federally issued permits for sludge dumping at the site expire.

In regard to authorities in New York who also use the site, the Governor signed a resolution urging Congess to end all dumping there when existing permits expire.

Another bill in the package states that all municipal treatment plants must meet the more stringent environmental standards for land-based disposal by March, 1991.

10-Year Jail Sentence For Series of Burglaries

Anthony Fowler, 28, of Route 27, New Brunswick, charged with four burglaries last year in the Borough and Township, was sentenced last week in Trenton.

Superior Court Judge Richard J.S. Barlow Jr. sentenced Fowler to ten years in jail and fined him $1,595.

Fowler pleaded guilty to a burglary on Witherspoon Street, where he stole stereo and television equipment valued at $800, and to the theft of $600 in jewelry from a Mount Lucas Road home. In another attempted burglary, he was frightened away from a Mount Lucas Road home when the owner heard noises and fired a gun. All three thefts occurred last June.

After Fowler was released on bail, he was arrested again, according to Assistant Prosecutor Brian C. McCauley, when he was charged with a fourth burglary in the Borough on January 14. A co-defendant in that case, which is still pending, is Anthony Bailey of Route 27.

Judge Barlow sentenced Fower to two consecutive five-year terms and another five year term, both to run concurrently.

Elm Road Residents Win Their Speed Limit Battle

A number of Elm Road residents, determined that the speed limit on their road not exceed 25 miles per hour, have won a victory. A court order from Superior Court Judge Paul Levy determined that Elm Road was a "residence district," and thus a 25 mph limit was statutory, even without an ordinance.

A suit was brought by Attorney Garrett Heher, an Elm Road resident, after Borough Council introduced an ordinance to set the Elm Road speed limit at 35 miles per hour. The Borough, however, was not necessarily dedicated to this higher limit. Rather, Municipal Court Judge Russell W. Annich Jr. had determined some time ago that a 25 mile-per-hour limit on Elm Road was not enforceable. During a court session, he had said that the prosecutor had not established sufficiently that the lower speed limit was justified by the nature of the area, and that there was not sufficient evidence it was a residence zone. Because of this, he declined to fine a person who had been cited for exceeding the speed limit.

After this, Borough Police stopped giving tickets for speeding on Elm Road, and Council became anxious to set up an enforceable speed limit on the road. A Department of Transportation study, which suggested a 35 mile-per-hour limit, was cited in support of the higher figure.

However, once Judge Levy determined that Elm Road was a residence district, the Borough had the power to reject the DOT study and its 35 mile-per-hour recommendation.

At least a dozen Elm Road residents were at the Council meeting last Thursday to make certain Council rejected the study. In addition, five letters and a petition signed by 30 residents in defense of the 25 mile-per-hour limit were presented to Council.

The residents told Council that it was difficult for them to get in and out of their driveways, and that people crossing the road, especially the senior citizens and handicapped who live in Elm Court, face a danger with higher speed limits. The safety of children attempting to cross the road was also cited.

Council President Marvin Reed said the reason he had voted for the ordinance when it was introduced was that he believed it was the only way the Borough could adopt an enforceable speed limit, "and get police cars out there to give people tickets."

Councilman Rodney Fisk said there was a need to make a trade-off. "We have the responsibility to asure the flow of traffic in the Borough. Elm is a through residential street. If we raise Elm, other streets, such as Mercer, would probably also be raised."

After the vote, Mr. Heher reminded Mr. Reed of his promise to tell the police chief to enforce the 25 mile-per-hour speed limit.

'Song of the South' Next

Walt Disney's Song of the South, a cheerful interpretation of the popular Uncle Remus folktales, will be shown Saturday at 10 in the John Witherspoon School auditorium. Sponsored by the Recreation Department, the showing is free and open to the public.

Cars Collide Head-On; Both Drivers Charged

The drivers of two cars which collided head-on on Route 206 near Edgerstoune Road on Saturday have been charged with driving while intoxicated. Three persons were admitted to Princeton Medical Center following the accident.

One of the drivers, Wendell Rogers, 26, of Trenton, told the investigating officer, Ptl. David W. Leiggi, that he did not remember anything about the accident except that he was going north on Route 206 en route to Princeton.

The second driver, Claire McDonald, 45, of Kingston, N.Y., told police that she was headed south on 206 when she observed a red car going north. Suddenly, she said, the car crossed the double yellow line and made a turn toward her, as if, she said, it was attempting a left turn into a driveway or street. The cars met head-on two-tenths of a mile south of Edgerstoune Road.

Mr. Rogers was admitted to the hospital for treatment of a head injury. Ms. McDonald was admitted in stable condition with facial injuries; her passenger, William Pretsch, 45, of Kingston, N.Y., sustained a chest injury. Members of the Princeton First Aid and Rescue squad had to use a Jaws of Life machine to help extricate Mr. Pretsch from the passenger seat where he had been trapped.

Blood samples from both drivers were taken at the hospital and each was later charged with driving while intoxicated. Police are waiting for the results of those blood tests. Mr. Rogers was also charged with failing to keep right.

Both Ms. McDonald's '84 Cadillac and Mr. Rogers' 1980 Buick were total losses.

Ptl. Leiggi noted that the Rogers car did not leave any skid marks, and he was unable to find any witnesses to the 6:15 accident.

Ms. McDonald told the officer that Mr. Rogers did not signal or give any warning prior to his sudden turn into her lane. She was unable to avoid a collision, she said. Mr. Pretsch corroborated her statement.

Police said the items, valued at $765, were apparently shoplifted from display racks during a three-day period. The owner told police that a couple in the store last Tuesday had been acting in an unusual, suspicious manner, but the thefts were not discovered until after an inventory.

A Princeton resident lost $20 to $30 from a black leather wallet removed from his clothing which he had left for an hour in an unlocked locker in Dillnn Gym on the University campus. The wallet was recovered the next day — Friday — by University Security in a dumpster near 1901 Hall. Except for the cash, the wallet's contents were intact.

In a late report, a University student listed the theft last month of his $125 grey suit which he had left in a friend's unlocked van parked near Spelman Hall.

In one of four bicycle thefts reported last week, a Township resident left a blue, 10-speed bicycle unlocked in a rack on Nassau Street near Witherspoon. When he returned at 4:30 Friday morning, the $300 bike was missing.

Another $300 bicycle, a white Ross mountain bike, was stolen early Saturday morning from the entrance hall to Marita's Cantina, 138 Nassau Street, where it had been left unlocked. It was recovered Tuesday morning — three days later — next to a wall of a building at 162 Nassau.

Spelman Hall was the scene of two more thefts. A student's Western Flyer model, valued at $100, was taken between 12:30 and 6 p.m. Sunday from the second entryway where it had been secured with a chain and combination lock.

A resident of Spelman had his 12-speed touring bike locked to a rack outside the Hall but that did not prevent a thief from stealing the bike's rear wheel, valued at $75. Police said the theft took place between 2 and 9 Sunday morning.

Trenton Men Charged With Shoplifting Here

Two Trenton residents have been charged with shoplifting, following separate incidents last week at the Princeton Shopping Center.

O.C. Hightower, 34, was charged with stealing nine bottles of cologne and spray cologne valued at $79.50 from the Thrift Drug Store on Wednesday. Hightower, who was held by the store manager until police arrived, was sentenced the same night in Township court to 30 days in the Mercer County Correction Center.

The following day, Maurice Byrd, 35, was arrested after allegedly stealing 21 rolls of Kodak film and eight packages

At a preliminary hearing, Byrd was released in $25 bail. When he failed to appear in Township court Monday, Judge Sydney Souter issued a $100 contempt of court charge and a $500 bench warrant for his arrest.

Youth Is Cut on Thumb In Street Confrontation

A 17-year-old West Windsor youth last week received a knife cut on his hand during a confrontation between two groups of youths on Nassau Street between Chestnut and Pine. The victim was taken to Princeton Medical Center where seven sutures were needed to close a laceration of his right thumb.

According to Capt. Thomas Michaud, five youths from Washington Township, Cranbury, West Windsor and Princeton Township, all 17, were standing on the sidewalk about 12:30 Thursday morning. They and a second group of two young men began exchanging comments which deteriorated into name-calling and profanity.

Soon two of the youths, one from each group, squared off and became involved in a pushing and shoving match. One pulled a knife and swung at the other. Capt. Michaud said the victim blocked the swing with his left arm and was trying to grab the knife wielder's arm with his other hand when he was cut.

Capt. Michaud added that police do not know the identity of the two young men, who both fled from the scene. The incident is still under investigation, he said.

John Witherspoon School Suffers Broken Skylights

Two four-foot square skylights at the John Witherspoon School were broken last week by unknown means.

Lt. David Potts, after reporting that no entry was gained to the school, estimated the replacement cost as "pretty substantial."

In the Borough last week, rocks (found inside) were thrown through two front window panes at the Kuller Travel Agency on Nassau Street. Police report no entry and no estimate of the cost to replace the two-foot panes.

A student's 1987 Honda was the target of vandals while it was parked last week behind Dial Lodge on Prospect Avenue. The car's side view mirror on the driver's side, antenna and rear wiper were broken, and a left front turn signal light was smashed.

Terrance V. Andrews, 166 John Street, was fined $780 for driving while his license was suspended, and Luncong Dong, Dept. of Chemistry, Princeton University paid two fines: $75 for failure to yield right of way and $35, non-compliance with learner's permit.

He was one of six University students originally charged by Borough police after their investigation into excessive drinking by underage students at University eating clubs during sign-in night last February 6.

In May, Mr. Martin had agreed to plead guilty in Borough court to a misdemeanor charge of disturbing the peace with the understanding that he would not face a prison sentence.

Martin W. Longman, 68 Woodland Drive, was fined $165 and $30 to the Violent Crime Compensation Board for purchasing alcoholic beverage as a minor. His driver's license was revoked for six months. The charge of serving a minor against Joseph A. Furch Jr. of 22 Forest Drive, Lawrenceville, in a companion case, was dismissed on a motion by the State.

Life Sciences Program Receives $2.5 Million

American Cyanamid Co. has pledged $2.5 million in two grants over five years to Princeton University's life sciences program.

One grant will provide $1.025 million for research and teaching in the life sciences at Princeton. It will support a four-year American Cyanamid professorship in the Department of Biology and will make possible the acquisition of a fluorescence-activated cell sorter facility for research in the life sciences. Remaining funds under this grant will provide general support to strengthen research in the life sciences.

The other grant, totaling $1.475 million, will provide funds for postdoctoral fellowships and research in the life sciences. Research proposals from Princeton faculty members will be supported by a special fund created through the grant.

George Sella, chairman and chief executive officer of American Cyanamid, said: "We are very pleased to be able to make this significant contribution to Princeton in recognition of its outstanding work in the life sciences. Our two institutions have a long and successful record of productive exchange, and we are excited to see it continue in this major way."

University President Harold T. Shapiro said: "As Princeton recognizes the exciting convergence of research in the life sciences by combining its departments of Biology and Molecular Biology, the University enters a new era of research. The American Cyanamid gift will give us a splendid boost and welcome support as we begin this new chapter in the work of life sciences at Princeton."

American Cyanamid is a research-based biotechnology and chemical company which develops medical, agricultural, chemical and consumer products and manufactures and markets them throughout the world. Headquartered in Wayne, N.J., the company has its agricultural and veterinary research division in Princeton and its pharmaceutical division, Lederle Laboratories, in Pearl River, N.Y.

Plants Can Be Watered Using Recycled Shower

To the Editor of Town Topics:

As gardeners, we are concerned about the fate of our plants and shrubs in the present water emergency. As concerned citizens, we are honor bound to follow the rule of "15 minutes a day hand-held hose only."

Here are some tips to help stretch the water available:

1. Wash dishes by hand in one side of your (stoppered) sink; rinse in the other (stoppered) side. This rinse water, allowed to come to room temperature, can be scooped into a watering can and carried to the garden.

2. Put a bucket in the shower with you. You will be surprised at how much water you collect to carry out to your favorite azalea or rhododendron. Both shrubs are shallow rooted and particularly vulnerable to drought. The small amount of soap in this water is beneficial, not harmful, to plants.

3. While you wait for the water to run hot to wash your face or shave, fill a small indoor watering can which you can keep in your bathroom.

4. Decant the leftover water in the tea kettle into a small indoor watering can kept on the kitchen counter. This water, which presumably has been boiled and has stood overnight, is pure and should be kept always, drought or no, for watering your most delicate plants, indoors or out, winter or summer.

5. If you use a dehumidifier, this water too is pure, distilled water and should be kept the year round for select plants.

We should all of us be more conscious of saving water at all times. The present water emergency has simply brought to our attention how important it is to conserve this precious natural resource.

The Rainbow Coalition Supports Library Asst's

To the Editor of Town Topics:

We are writing in support of the Princeton University library assistants and their labor union, AFSCME Local 956. The library assistants, most of whom are women, are the lowest paid workers in the University.

In an effort to combat exploitation, racism and sexism in the workplace, they are seeking a contract that provides decent wages, greater decision-making and training for job advancement. In stressing job training, they are trying to ensure that those employees with the least formal education — many of them Black — have an opportunity to advance within the library system.

By espousing a high-minded moral mission while short-changing its own employees, the University perpetuates the split between "high ideals and catchpenny realities" that plagues our public life. It can do better. The Princeton Rainbow Coalition supports efforts by the union to make the University live up to its own ideals.

Reviewer's Observations Pleasing to Photographer

To the Editor of Town Topics:

Recently Professor Mark Cohen, who put on the exhibition at the Firestone Library, "Judaica at Princeton," sent me your reporter's review of the show (Barbara A. Baxter, TOWN TOPICS, June 8, 1988).

I was very much taken by the observation in the article concerning the contrasts of the new and old in the photographs taken by me and hung in the show. These were quite subtle, and I want to compliment the reviewer for noting the differences.

Will you please pass on my remarks to the reporter?

Thanks to All Concerned For a Glorious July 4th

Three cheers for the Red, White and Blue! And for the genial capacity crowd celebrating our nation's birthday at the 11th annual Princeton Pops Concert and Fireworks on the University Fields.

All elements combined for a perfect evening: the weather; the fun of picnicking with family and friends; the beautiful music of the New Jersey Symphony Orchestra conducted by Michael Pratt; The Westminster Summer High School Choir — all capped by the spectacular display of fireworks presented as a gift to the community by the Chamber of Commerce of the Princeton Area.

Special thanks are in order from the Princeton Pops Concert Committee (volunteer members from the sponsoring Princeton/Mercer Champter of the NJSO League and the Princeton Area Chamber of Commerce) to:

• Princeton University for making its facilities available and helping to stage this community event;

• Princeton-Windsor News Service for wide distribution of our promotional flyers;

• Winifred Donahue's Telephone Answering Service (924-4411) for such competent responses and referrals to numerous inquiries;

• These banks and stores for generously providing ticket outlets: H. Gross & Co., Princeton Bank, Palmer Square Kiosk, Country Mouse, Princeton University Store, The Jigger Shop, Titles Unlimited, Epstein's Ellsworth's Cranbury Pharmacy, Hopewell House Fine Wines, Say Cheese, nuts, etc.!

Finally, without major funding from the Squibb Corporation, this year's Princeton Pops Concert & Fireworks would not have been assured. Squibb's contribution was in the true spirit of its corporate commitment to "contribute to the economic health and well-being of the communities" in which it does business.

More cheers will be heard in November and December when thousands of area school children attend Young People's Concerts by the NJSO at the War Memorial in Trenton. They are the real beneficiaries of proceeds from the July 4th Princeton Pops Concert & Fireworks.

Money Is Well Spent Educating the Bolsters

To the Editor, Town Topics:

Concerning the Bolster era:

The tax dollars spent to educate the "Bolsters" were well spent.

Princeton taxpayers received returns many times over — no dropouts — all were involved in community work.

The Bolsters were well adjusted and secure. They provided "bragging rights" for all their young friends, and their parents' loving control was envied by many parents.

Barbara Johnson's article (TOWN TOPICS, June 22, 1988) was so uplifting.

337 acres near the intersection of Bear Brook and Meadow roads. The West Windsor Township Committee has recently approved an agreement with CAP Associates to reduce the number of units to 1,500. In exchange, the Township would expedite the site plan approval hearings and "endorse" CAP's application to reserve sewerage capacity at the Stony Brook Regional Sewerage Authority. The Township also agreed to permit a temporary pumping station on the tract.

The developer agreed to give the Township 15 acres of the property for use as a public site and to pay 110 percent of its fee for off-site roadway improvements. Some 225 of the units must be set aside for low- and moderate-income housing and the agreement and subsequent planning board approvals must be approved by State Superior Court Judge Eugene D. Serpentelli of Toms River.

The Countryside application was approved by the Mercer County Planning Board but with numerous conditions related to the project's impact on roads and sewers. CAP Associates appealed the board's decision to the Mercer County Board of Chosen Freeholders, and that appeal was scheduled to be heard by the freeholders Tuesday night as TOWN TOPICS went to press.

Road Rally Is Sunday To Help Fight Blindness

On Sunday, rain or shine, the shops at Princeton Forrestal Village will co-sponsor "Village Rally 1," a road rally to fight blindness.

The rally, to benefit R.P. Foundation Fighting Blindness, is open to any licensed, insured driver in any type of car, van or truck. Registration is $20 per car, to cover operational expenses and a donation to the R.P. Foundation.

"This is not a race," said Terry Stout, marketing representative of Forrestal Village. "The rally will be a fun-filled test of driving skills and a driver/navigator team's ability to follow a set of route instructions and to answer a detailed set of questions about landmarks seen along the route."

The rally will be conducted along public roads in the Princeton area and will be run at legal speeds. The first car will depart at 10:30 a.m., with the rest of the field starting the 2½- to three-hour run at short intervals thereafter. The start/finish line will be at Forrestal Village, Route 1. A clipboard is required.

The rally is limited to a field of 175 registrants. Contestants should pre-register by picking up forms at Village stores or at the Village information booth.

A team reception will be held at Woodrow's in the Village at the conclusion of the rally. Trophies will be awarded to many classes of finishers, including the team that arrives dead last.

For further information, call 520-0696 or 799-6363.

Are You a Run-Down Dieter?

Most diets focus only on calories, or worse, draw their entire regimen from only one nf the fond groups. When you begin a program that falls into one of these categories, your body misses some of the nutrients it needs to function properly, your energy level drops, and you feel tired all the time. The only way around this loss of energy is to focus on nutrients and not calories and to see that you eat a balanced diet.

At Diet Center, you learn to eat a wide variety of fresh foods that are packed with the nutrients your body needs to function properly. Many people find that while they are on the Diet Center Program they actually have more energy than they can remember ever having.

House Raising Walk Set To Come Through Town

A group of walkers representing the international program Habitat for Humanity will be passing through Princeton Wednesday, July 20, on their way from Portland, Me., to Americus, Ga.

Their walk celebrates 12 years of successful voluntary efforts to build housing for the needy and is aimed at raising funds to expand their efforts and increase public awareness of the program. Walkers from points north will arrive in front of Borough Hall at 11, where walkers from this area are scheduled to join them. Each walker is expected to obtain monetary pledges for his or her participation in the walk.

Funds will be used to purchase building materials for new or rehabilitated houses for the needy. Dozens of volunteer construction workers have been rehabilitating two houses at 666 and 668 North Clinton Avenue in Trenton, under the supervision of Dick Morgan, Bill Voorhees and Scott Spence. Dave Roach, a 1987 graduate of Princeton Day School, is working full time as a summer intern on the project.

Groups from Nassau Presbyterian Church, All Saints' Church, Prince of Peace Lutheran Church and Pennington Presbyterian Church have been working on the rehabilitation. One house will be dedicated in a ceremony Wednesday, July 20, at 4 p.m. at George Page Park on North Clinton Avenue, next to the Habitat housing projects. Walkers and workers from some 30 area churches are expected to attend.

In addition lo the rehabilitation of the two houses, two new row houses are planned at 681 and 683 North Clinton Avenue. Two workcamps are scheduled to begin work Friday on the project, which has been in preparation for nine months. A team of volunteer architects, including Hank Bristol of West Windsor, designed the houses, and permits and approvals were secured from the city and County, a process that has taken longer than expected. Foundations were expected to be poured the week of July 11, and the workcamps will then raise the houses from foundation to roof.

In addition to the rally and dedication ceremony, there will be a service of celebration Wednesday, July 20, at 8 at Nassau Presbyterian Church in Princeton, at which Millard Fuller, the founder and president of Habitat for Humanity, will deliver the message. The public is invited to both ceremonies.

For information call David McAlpin, 921-3695, or Randell Alston, 394-7725.

Cosmology Is the Topic Of Lecture on Monday

David Wilkinson, chairman of the Princeton University Physics Department, will give the second public lecture in the series "Essays in Science and Mathematics" on Monday at 7:30 in Kresge Auditorium on the Princeton University campus. Dr. Wilkinson's topic will be "Cosmology."

Dr. Wilkinson received his B.S.E., M.S.E. and Ph.D. degrees from the University of Michigan. After ten years on the Michigan faculty, he joined the Physics Department at Princeton in 1971. He is a member of the National Academy of Science, the Academy of Arts and Sciences, the American Physics Society, and the American Astronomical Society. In addition, he was a recipient of an Alfred P. Sloan Foundation fellowship in 1966 and a John Simon Guggenheim fellowship in 1977.

This series of lectures is sponsored by the Woodrow Wilson National Fellowship Foundation in conjunction with its institutes on high school mathematics, chemistry and physics held at the University. Some 150 high school teachers, selected in a national competition, spend a month at these institutes preparing curriculum modules for use in general high school math and science courses.

The final lecture in the series will be given on Monday, July 25, by Ronald Graham, Adjunct Director of AT&T's Bell Laboratories. This lecture is also scheduled for 7:30 p.m. in Kresge Auditorium.

TRUTH MADE HER FREE.
An understanding of God, Truth, freed an Indiana woman from an infected lung, arthritis, and confinement to a wheelchair. It changed her whole life.
But this is not why she came to Christian Science in the first place. It was her hunger for an understanding of God.
If you are searching for the joyous freedom that comes from knowing God's presence in your life, come to our service this Wednesday evening. You will hear people like yourself testify to the power of God, Truth, in their own experience.

Medical Center

ed when it can be demonstrated that there are unused parking spaces on-site. On the basis of the survey, and spaces being created in the new lot at Henry Avenue, Mr. Slimak ruled that the Medical Center could deduct 47 spaces from the additional parking required by the J-wing addition. However, 43 spaces required by this addition would still be lacking.

Dennis Doody, Princeton Medical Center president, told the board that a second parking garage, a mirror image of the first, with another 395 spaces, could be built at the corner of Henry Avenue. However, in earlier consultation with the Planning Board, it was decided to provide "on-grade" parking for 102 cars at that corner until such time as a second parking garage is needed.

"We don't like parking garages or a lot of blacktop any more than you do," Mr. Doody told the board. He said that the existing garage is empty much of the time and only reaches capacity occasionally, mainly at the time of the afternoon/evening shift change. In addition to building a second garage, the hospital could also deck the Franklin Avenue employee parking lot, he said.

"We have the parking capability without going off-site," Mr. Doody remarked. He pointed out that the new addition does not add beds to the hospital unit. It replaces beds in the A-wing, an older section of the hospital, which do not have bathrooms and are undersized for present-day patient care.

When 72 beds from A-wing are moved into the two new floors of J-wing, the top three floors of A-wing will be renovated. One floor will have 20 beds instead of the present 34, and the top two floors will be renovated to accommodate offices and departments that are presently overcrowded. Noting that factors in health care are constantly changing, he said that a major tenant, Princeton Medical Group, will vacate its space in the Medical Arts Building by 1990, and that he expects this will relieve some of the parking problems in the neighborhood.

The Medical Center provides free parking for its doctors, staff and employees. As explained by Medical Center attorney Christopher Tarr, Princeton Medical Center "encourages" its tenants in the Medical Arts Building to use the parking garage at a reduced rate, but does not provide free parking for nurses and technicians employed by the physician tenants. These employees, along with patients seeing physicians in the doctors' offices and people visiting patients in the hospital, are apt to use the free parking on the surrounding streets, it was noted.

Sharon McHugh, 14 Birch Avenue, who described herself as a planner by education, told the board that the neighborhood is "stressed" by the parking problems that come "directly" from Princeton Medical Center. She said there was an economic "disincentive" for hospital visitors to use the parking garage and asked the board to rectify what she described as "a grave parking situation" and a hardship on the neighbors.

Walt Maykowskyj, also of 14 Birch Avenue, spoke of fights between nurses and neighbors over parking spaces, of cars that block driveways and drivers who don't return for many hours to move them. Mr. Maykowskyj agreed that it would be "idiotic" for the Medical Center to build a parking garage for one hour of peak use, and felt the Medical Center was "being made a villain" for the parking problems which he said were "pulling the neighborhood down." He also noted that elsewhere "merchants are starving for space" and said, "Somewhere a balance has to be struck."

In granting site plan approval and the parking variance, the Planning Board conditioned the approval on a monitoring of the parking situation onsite and in the neighborhood by the zoning enforcement officer of each municipality. The Medical Center is to cooperate by providing parking data when requested, and if problems are identified, or if internal renovations bring new uses or more staff to the site, is to return to the board with a plan to rectify the situation.

Planning Board chairperson Margen Penick suggested that a committee be set up in September with representatives of the Medical Center, the neighborhood and the board to discuss the parking issue further. "I welcome that," Mr. Doody said.

Township Mayor Kate Litvack suggested that a proposal to issue parking stickers to residents be explored. Mr. Tarr said that such a move to "preclude" non-resident parkers would assist the Medical Center in its efforts to encourage Medical Arts Building tenants and hospital visitors to use the garage.

SSI Develops Curriculum For Young Astronauts

The Space Studies Institute (SSI), Rocky Hilt, will help educate half a million elementary and junior high school children about the exciting possibilities of space this fall through a curriculum package developed for the Young Astronaut Program. The package, which will focus on the Earth's moon, is the initial project between SSI and Young Astronauts.

The SSI/Young Astronauts Moon Package, due for release in September, will include activities on the moon's composition, phases, history of exploration, myths and legends, as well as a game designed to demonstrate the economic benefits of lunar settlements. It is the first in a series of joint efforts that will include lessons on the shuttle external tanks, solar power, and magnetic flight.

The Space Institute is a private, nonprofit organization, founded in 1977 by Dr. Gerard K. O'Neill, professor emeritus of physics at Princeton University and a member of the National Commission on Space, to conduct the research necessary to the creation of lunar bases.

The Young Astronaut Program was launched by President Reagan in 1984 to encourage elementary and junior high school students in mathematics, science and technology-related subjects.

Barry Levy, 68 Einstein Drive, a fellow at the Institute for Advanced Study, is the author of Quakers and the American Family: British Settlement in the Delaware Valley, published by Oxford University Press.

Mr. Levy, who was assistant professor of history at Case-Western Reserve University before coming to the Institute, has written a cultural history of the British Quakers of northwest England from their development of a new way of life in England to their emigration and experience in Pennsylvania.

He argues that these Quakers brought a new vision of family and social life to America — one that contrasted sharply with the harsh formal world of the Puritans in New England. The Quaker emphasis was on affection, friendship and hospitality. They stressed the importance of women in the home and of self-disciplined, noncoercive childrearing.

The book explains how and why the Quakers had such a profound cultural impact — and why more so in Pennsylvania and America than in England — and what the Quakers' experience with their own family system can tell us about American family ideology.

LET'S TALK ABOUT

WATER IN THE GARDEN

with Sam deTuro

Woodwinds Associates

How to properly water your garden areas is a timely question in this parched central Jersey summer!

First and foremost, set up a watering schedule for all areas of your property so that you will not waste water by watering without rhyme or reason. Evaluate your watering equipment. Fix leaking hoses and connectors so that the water only goes where it is needed. Consider that plants absorb water through their roots and that maybe a drip system might be a good investment.

Container plants should have an inch of space between the top of the soil and the rim. When the soil is dry, flood the pot and let the soil gradually absorb the water.

Mulch is probably the biggest water saver for a garden bed. Several inches of mulch will reduce evaporation and conserve soil moisture. Make a saucer 2-3" high and the size of the root ball around your trees and new plantings. Fill the saucer with water and let it soak down into the root ball.

Using these tips ought to make you a wise caretaker for your plants, and a thoughtful conservationist of one of our most valuable resources.

Call Woodwinds with any of your tree Pruning, Spraying, Feeding and Landscaping needs, 609-924-3500.

Princeton Professor Writes of Coming of Age As a World War II Flyer in 'Flights of Passage'

The memories of his time as a young Marine Corps aviator in World War II were with Samuel Hynes for many decades before he wrote them down. He began putting them on paper in the early 1970's, after being prodded by the title of an English writer's memoirs.

"He called his book something like Before the Sunset Fades, said Prof. Hynes, who is Woodrow Wilson Professor of Literature at Princeton University. "I wanted to get it down before it disappeared."

His book, Flights of Passage: Reflections of a World War II Aviator, received excellent reviews in publications such as the New York Times Book Review, Time Magazine, the Washington Post, and USA Today.

Writer James Dickey called the work "a compelling and honest memoir as well as a profound human document of a terrible and heroic time." Russell Baker wrote, "Hynes has caught it just the way I remember it. Reminds me of what being young was like in Piper Cubs and Yellow Perils."

The book is a later version of the work Prof. Hynes began in the 70's, when he spent two summers at the MacDowall writers' colony in New Hampshire. When he completed the draft, he began sending it around. The Vietnam War was being fought in southeast Asian jungles and on everyone's television screen. Anti-war demonstrations were at their height.

"This was not the time to offer war stories to the American people," he says. "I sent it to the New Yorker. The editor wrote back saying he was sympathetic, but that the magazine's position on the present war prevented it from publishing something on war."

An Underground Reputation. He put the book aside. But it had become known, and people began to ask to see it. He revised the work in the late 70's, and it soon began to get an underground reputation. Sections were published in the Sewanee Review, and this eventually led to the book's joint publication earlier this year by Frederic C. Bell and the Naval Institute Press.

WORLD WAR II REMEMBERED: Samuel B. Hynes, Woodrow Wilson Professor of Literature at Princeton University and author of a recently published memoir, "Flights of Passage: Reflections of a World War II Aviator."

The fact that war is fought by the young is never forgotten in reading Flights of Passage. Prof. Hynes begins his preface with, "Every generation is a secret society. The secret that my generation — the one that came of age during the Second World War — shared was simply the war itself. We grew up on active duty. I entered Navy Flight School when I was eighteen, and I was not twenty-one until two weeks after the war ended, and most of the young men I flew with were roughly my age."

Flew in Okinawa. In these three years, the college freshman from Minnesota went through flight school, received a commission, got married, and was posted to the western Pacific. There, before the end of the war, he flew more than 100 missions in light bombers, including support of the Marine assault on Okinawa.

In writing the book, Prof. Hynes shed his current self of scholar and historian and spoke with the voice of the midwestern youth he was more than 40 years ago — the young man who went to war "because I was a freshman on an American university campus when everybody was going to war. It was so obviously the right thing to do, you didn't question it."

His descriptions of people, places, and events are so detailed and vivid that it appears he must have kept a journal. "No, I had no journal," he says. 'Every pilot has a log, which lists every flight I ever made. I also kept some Marine Corps orders, written in impossible military language, which told where I went, and who went with me."

He said he tried not to write retrospectively, but with the voice of the young man who was there. "You have to work your way back. Things like the log book and yellowing photographs helped. Being married to the person you were married to then helped too."

Truth, says Prof. Hynes, is subjective in this kind of writing. "In a sense, it's true if I remember it's true." But his recollections have been corroborated by others. Since the book's publication, he has received many letters from men he knew or was somehow associated with in the squadron. Only one had a question on even one small detail.

One letter arrived from a gunner for one of his friends, who told him additional details of the stories he had put in the book. Another came from a man who had been wounded on April 1, 1945. The incident erased his memory of events before that date. After reading Prof. Hynes' book, his memory returned.

In his book, Prof. Hynes talks not only of his experiences as a trainee and an aviator. He also writes of his father — an austere man who found difficulty in expressing his love to his son — and of his courtship of the young Alabama woman he married during the war.

Samuel and Elizabeth Hynes now live on Moore Street. They have two grown daughters, of whom Prof. Hynes says, "I'd choose them for my companions even if they were not my

Bouncy Appeal of "Pump Boys and Dinettes," Now at Murray Theatre, Is Impossible to Resist

SOUTHERN HOSPITALITY: Derry Light as Prudie Cupp and Bonnie J. DeBouter as her sister Rhetta welcome patrons to the Double Cupp diner in Smyrna, N.C., in Princeton Rep Company's "Pump Boys and Dinettes" at Murray Theatre on the Princeton University campus. The country musical revue continues this weekend and next, with performances Thursday, Friday and Saturday at 8 and Sundays at 7.

"Y'all come down to the Double Cupp Diner," invites the sweet-as-sugar, pink-uniformed waitress Rhetta Cupp. "Our menu is the roadmap to your heart." As the evening bounces along, the appeal becomes impossible to resist.

The Double Cupp Diner, operated by Rhetta and her sister Prudie, and the Pump Boys Gas Station on North Carolina Highway 57 provide the setting for singing, dancing, homemade pie and good ole southern hospitality in Princeton Rep Company's production of the country music revue, Pump Boys and Dinettes at Murray Theatre on the Princeton University campus.

From the quiet elegance and sophistication of the University campus, step into a world of cheese grits, spoon bread, sweet potato fries, a rock band called the Flaming Groovies, and folks who get all excited about catfish, fantasies of Dolly Parton, farmer tans (brown arms, white chest and a red neck), air fresheners for your pick-up truck and Mona, the Woolworth check-out girl who's a "gum-poppin' be-boppin' heart-stoppin' dime store dream!"

The 19 different numbers range from sentimental ballads and moving love songs to sensual blues, driving country rock and rousing comedy. The predominant tone is easy-going, folksy and captivatingly ingenuous throughout the evening.

Thoroughly Professional. Derry Light and Bonnie DeBouter are Prudie and Rhetta, two of the most dynamic dinettes you could ever hope to see. Whether they are serving homemade lemon meringue pie, harmonizing with the Pump Boys, dancing or providing musical accompaniment on the kitchen pans, their performances are thoroughly professional, focused and exciting to watch.

News of the THEATRES

They can turn on the comic appeal for the "Menu Song," or put on their yellow rubber dishwashing gloves and get tough and sassy for "Tips" ("Don't want no lip, just a big fat tip") or slow down to give us the most effective serious moment of the show in "Sisters." Their voices are strong and sure, their movements fluid and energetic.

Ms. Light specializes in the more subdued numbers — her romantic solo, "The Best Man," for example — while Ms. Debouter, who is also responsible for the skillful staging of this show, uses her powerful voice and brass to advantage in telling off her man, "Be Good or Be Gone."

Not quite as consistently strong on the vocalizing but worthy counterparts to the Dinettes are the five spirited, fun-loving Pump Boys, led by Robert Osborne, the highly expressive, easily abashed master of ceremonies. Mr. Osborne uses his winning manner and multiple talents to keep the show rolling with such hand-clapping, foot-stomping numbers as "Highway 57," "Drinkin' Shoes," "Pump Boys" ("We keep America rollin' — We're the pump boys") and "No Holds Barred" ("I'm goin' to Florida. Won't you come along with me?/And if the weather is hell, we'll hang around the motel makin' love and watchin' color TV!").

Vocal Acrobatics. Boyce Ennis on the piano provides a solid accompaniment throughout the show and takes the spotlight two or three times, most notably for the sultry Memphis blues number, "Serve Yourself" ("I may be a retread, but I'm not a spare, so you can serve yourself better than you serve me"). His vocal acrobatics are so dextrous and his blues piano so hot that he eventually needs the two dinettes over at his piano with fans to cool him off.

Mark Brown, harmonica player and guitarist, contributes two of the best comic vocal solos of the evening with "The Night Dolly Parton Was Almost Mine" and "Farmer Tan," the latter with strong support from two dinettes sporting white-rimmed sun glasses. Richard Eigen on lead guitar takes a supporting position until he practically stops the show with his Elvis-style solo tribute to the Woolworth girl "Mona," and Cliff Wilson rounds out the gas station gang, providing strong bass guitar and vocal back-up.

The set design by Bill Simonelli and Victoria Liberatori is unusually detailed for a musical revue, giving us a strong flavor of being there: a billboard advertising the gas station and diner at upstage center, the diner counter complete with stools and other accoutrements on stage left, and the gas station with old tires, crates, coke bottles, moonshine bottles and other pieces of assorted garage junk on stage right.

Pump Boys and Dinettes, a Tony nominee of six years ago written by John Foley, Mark Hardwick, Debra Monk, Cass Morgan, John Schimmel and Jim Wann, will be playing at Murray Theatre for two more weekends — Thursday, Friday and Saturday at 8 p.m. and Sundays at 7 p.m. So y'all come on down to the Double Cupp Diner, and don't forget to hold on to those ticket stubs for the raffle at intermission. (You too could win an air freshener for your truck!)

Live Music for Dancing

McCarter Theater patrons are invited to stay after the show on the next three Saturdays to dance in the tent on the front lawn, where there will be live music.

This Saturday, after The Miss Firecracker Contest, Crawfish Stompers will play Dixieland jazz. The following Saturday, following the performance of Smoke on the Mountain, pianist Sandy Maxwell and friends will perform "lively and mellow" tunes.

After the July 30 performance of The Miss Firecracker Contest, the Louisiana Bayou Band will play authentic Cajun music.

Boxed suppers created by Main Street Catering of Kingston are available under the tent before the shows, but orders must be placed through the box office, 683-8000, two days in advance.

Double Features Listed At Kresge Auditorium

Summer Cinema at Kresge Auditorium offers double features of films you may have missed first time around. Sponsored by McCarter Theater, the films are shown every night but Monday, the first one at 7:15 or 7:30, depending on its length, and the second at 9:15 or 9:30.

This weekend, the two films are Raising Arizona, described as "a deranged fable of the New West which turns into rousing satire," and Something Wild, in which kooky Melanie Griffith kidnaps Jeff Daniels to be her escort at her high school reunion.

Raising Arizona, which starts at 7:30, is about a small-time, inept convenience store thief (Nicholas Cage) who marries his booking officer (Holly Hunter) and tries to settle down. She can't have kids, and they can't adopt because of his ex-convict status, so they decide to kidnap. They pick from a litter of quintuplets born to an unfinished furniture tycoon, on the theory that one out of five won't be missed.

Bringing the baby home to their pre-fab trailer sets loose a string of complications as everyone and everything proceeds to get in the way, including the baby himself, who keeps getting left behind on dusty roads, strapped in his car seat. The film is rated PG-13, and lasts for 94 minutes.

Something Wild starts out as a comedy, slips into melodrama and winds up as something of a romantic dream. Jeff

Daniels plays a strait-laced businessman whose only brush with crime — failing to pay his lunch tab — captures the attention of uninhibited kook Melanie Griffith, who has identified Daniels as a kindred spirit and kidnaps him to escort her to her high school reunion. Agatha Christie Mystery At Artists Showcase

Who advertises a murder in the local paper and invites everyone in town to come and witness it? Precisely the question Miss Marple poses in Agatha Christie's A Murder Is Announced, which opens a three-weekend run Saturday at Artists Showcase Theatre, 1150 Indiana Avenue, Trenton.

As might be expected, the murder is complicated — by mistaken identities, an unadvertised murder, unknown heirs to a vast fortune and more mayhem than J.B. Fletcher finds in Cabot Cove. As the reasons for murder unravel at the hands of Inspector Craddock and Sergeant Mellors, Miss Marple weaves the threads together to create an entirely different piece of cloth, one that will surprise and delight mystery fans.

A Murder Is Announced was adapted for the stage by Leslie Darbon and features Eleanor Overton as Miss Marple. Ms. Overton delighted area audiences with her zany portrayal of the busybody detective in Murder at the Vicarage and was seen last season in Arsenic and Old Lace.

The production stars Peg Ritterbusch as the unwitting hostess to a murder. She was last teamed with Ms. Overton when she played her sister in Arsenic and Old Lace.

Deborah Lawler appears as Julia and Betty Coleman is Philipa. Joe Doyle plays Police Inspector Craddock and his wife, Cheryl, is featured as Mitzi, the histrionic cook.

The cast also includes Lillian Bulanowski as Bunny, James Hadden as Patrick, Priscilla Smith as Mrs. Swettenham, Gary Robinson as Edmund Swettenhem, George Scherer as Sergeant Mellors and Timothy Coleman as Harry.

A Murder Is Announced is a production of Shakesepeare '70, Inc. The show opens Saturday and will run July 22 through 24 and again July 28 and 29. Curtain times for all performances are at 8 except Sunday, July 24, at 7 p.m. Tickets are $8 except Sunday when they are $7. Reservations may be made by calling 392-1704.

A Family Favorite, "The Sound of Music" is On Stage — and Off — at Open Air Theatre

No musical theater season would be complete without a production of Rodgers and Hammerstein's The Sound of Music. One of the most popular musicals ever, The Sound of Music presents elements of romance, politics, European ambience and, of course, lots of music, all in one theatrical production.

Artists Showcase Theater is offering this favorite musical at the Open Air Theatre at Washington's Crossing. Plagued by a bit of bad luck with a power outage on Friday night, the show went on without a hitch Saturday night to a near-capacity crowd at the outdoor theater. In tune with its billing as a "family musical," the audience included many children.

The Sound of Music opens at the abbey where a young girl, Maria, is a novice. The directors of Artists Showcase have saved their "nun's chorus" some wear and tear by apparently pre-recording the choral parts in the first scene. Given the difficulties of maintaining in-tune singing out-of-doors, this decision was a wise one; the quality of singing in the taped recording was much higher than on the one occasion when the chorus did sing live backstage.

Maria in this production is played by Mary Liz Ivins and Georg von Trapp is performed by Robert Parrish. Ms. Ivins set a good tempo for the show in her opening number, but throughout much of the show, her songs seemed a bit too low for her soprano voice. It wasn't until "Do-Re-Mi" and "The Lonely Goatherd" that she was able to show off her high voice. Her energetic acting with the children of the cast set up an instant rapport with the audience, and she was sufficiently tomboyish to make a believable case for getting herself "kicked out" of the abbey.

Robert Parrish is a veteran of many Open Air Theatre productions and has performed this role in the past. His stature is befitting of a captain in the royal navy, and his dialogue and singing were credible and audible to the audience.

Of the minor characters, Warren Raymond's portrayal of von Trapp's friend, Max Detweiler, was a pleasant surprise; Mr. Raymond has performed mostly in speaking roles and hasn't been heard in many singing parts at the Theatre. His performance of "How Can Love Survive" (with Marianna Cottrell singing the role of Elsa Schraeder) was especially upbeat and well done.

Show Steaters. In any theatrical production involving children, a well-trained cast of youths will steal the show, and this performance is no exception.

The seven von Trapp children made no discernible errors in their dialogue, and displayed some nice individual voices in the ensemble. In particular, Penny Cornwall, in her role as Liesl, showed quite a bit of musical theater experience. Megan Moran, who was Brigitta, has quite a bit of stage presence for one so young, and Erica Dutko (Gretl) was impressively charming as the youngest von Trapp. The other children (Eddie Hughes as Friedrich, Amy Baddeley as Louisa, Brian Hedden as Kurt, and Dominique Prunetti as Marta) demonstrated that they were well-trained for their performance as the Trapp Family.

The natural outdoor setting of the Open Air Theatre offered some unusual and effective touches, unique to a production of this particular show. When the Trapp Family escapes the Germans and goes "up into the mountains," they do indeed go up into the hills behind the stage setting. One small area offstage needs another multi-directional mike, but otherwise all sections of the stage and wings were used effectively.

This show involves a large cast, with a number of small character roles. These were performed effectively by chorus members. For some reason, community theater actors feel that when they are portraying "the big bad Nazis" in productions of this show, they need to adopt a fake German accent, which is often distracting and certainly not essential. In this case the audience doesn't need accents to tell the good guys from the bad guys.

Bring Back the Orchestra. There is a strange and unfortunate phenomenon creeping into Open Air productions these days. Evidently the famous piano over the creek finally gave up the ghost, and instead of a small orchestra and piano accompaniment to shows, presenters are using electric pianos and synthesizers. Playing on a platform over a creek may not been an instrumentalists's dream, but there is no comparison between the percussive and often out-of-tune effect of an electric piano and the nuances and subtleties a conductor can derive from a small string and wind ensemble.

Because of the amplification mechanics of the electric piano, the instrument speaks a second later than played, and in this performance, the piano was often behind the singers. The quality of these instruments is also not at all becoming to the lush and romantic music of Rodgers and Hammerstein, and certainly detracted from the many nice qualities of this production.

The Sound of Music will be performed at the Open Air Theatre at Washington's Crossing through Saturday. Information about tickets can be obtained by calling 737-1826.

Star Is Also Playwright At McCarter Theater

Constance Ray is "in heaven," as she puts it, at McCarter Theater this summer.

Ms. Ray not only plays the juicy leading role as Carnelle Scott in Beth Henley's The Miss Firecracker Contest, which opens this Thursday, but she is also the author of Smoke on the Mountain, which will have its world premiere as the second play in McCarter's first summer season, dubbed "Jambalaya" for its southern accent and variety of offerings. Ms. Ray also has a part as a member of the circuit-riding, gospel-singing family in Smoke on the Mountain.

As an actress, Ms. Ray last appeared in Fast Eddie at the Manhattan Class Company. Other New York credits include Smiling at Winfield, at the Writer's Theatre; The Sign in Sidney Brustein's Window at the New Theatre, and The Marriage Proposal at the Museum of the City of New York and the Hartley House. Regional credits include Compulsion, The Man Who Came to Dinner, and A Christmas Carol.

Ms. Ray's first full-length play, Vanilla Triplets, was chosen by the Denver Theatre Center for Primafacie 3, a presentation of new American plays. It also received staged readings at the Williamstown Theatre Festival and at Playwrights Horizons, where she has recently been invited to join its unit for promising playwrights.

As an actress and a playwright, Ms. Ray wrote and performed a one-person show, Betsy Loves Snap Beans, at the 92nd Street Y and the Douglas Fairbanks Theatre in New York, and the Pennsylvania Stage Company in Allentown. A native of North Carolina, she writes primarily on southern themes.

In The Miss Firecracker Contest, Ms. Ray plays a young woman who is bent on leaving town and thinks that by

Chamber Music Concert Set by Waterloo Faculty

The fifth weekend of the 1988 Waterloo Music Festival features a chamber music concert on Friday evening at 8:30 at Richardson Auditorium. Waterloo faculty artists, who are drawn from leading conservatories across the country, will perform a wide range of compositions in a program which combines music from the traditional repertoire and 20th-century works.

The concert opens with two Baroque pieces for winds: a transcription for wind quintet of two contrapuncti from Bach's Art of the Fugue, and a Sonata for Bassoon and Harpsichord by Telemann. A trio of contemporary works follows: Fratres, a piece for cello ensemble by Arvo Part, the Estonian-born leader of European minimalist composers; a Sonata for Trumpet and Piano by Halsey Stevens, the American composer and Bartok authority; and the Quintet for Oboe and Strings by Quincy Porter, the neo-classical American composer whose music was played very frequently in the 1940's and 50's. Brahms' Trio in A minor for Clarinet, Cello and Piano, Opus 114, will conclude the program.

Tickets are $10. They may be purchased at the door, or in advance at TicketMaster outlets. Tickets may be charged by calling TicketMaster at (201) 507-8900. For additional information, call 452-5000.

For the second summer, three series of master classes presented by Waterloo faculty members have been open to the public at no charge. This season's final class, the sixth in the series on "The Art of Violin Playing," given by Professor Raphael Bronstein and Ariana Bronne, will be held Monday from 11 to 1 in Richardson Auditorium.

Jazz Cornetist Returns To Play at McCarter

Ed Polcer and the Condon Gang will perform Monday at 8 at McCarter Theater. Part of McCarter's Jambalaya summer season, the evening is designed to evoke a night at Eddie Condon's, the New York City jazz club.

Mr. Polcer was manager and part owner of Eddie Condon's from 1975 to 1985, as well as the resident cornetist. Like many jazzmen, he comes from a musical family — his father and uncle were horn players in New Jersey, where he grew up.

At Princeton University in the mid-1950's, Mr. Polcer joined Stan Rubin's Tigertown Five, perhaps the best-known collegiate dixieland group of the day. With that band he made several Carnegie Hall appearances and performed at the wedding of Prince Rainier and Grace Kelly in Monaco in 1956.

Following a stint in the Air Force, Mr. Polcer settled into the New York jazz scene, working in such mid-town jazz meccas as Condon's, Jimmy Ryan's and the Metropole. He joined Benny Goodman's Sextet for an American tour in 1973 and also toured the U.S. and Canada in 1975 with Bob Green's "World of Jelly Roll Morton" troupe before landing the Condon's gig with Red Balaban and Cats.

The program Monday will take the audience on a tour of American jazz from St. Louis to Chicago, Harlem, Kansas City and New Orleans. Playing with Mr. Polcer will be Ken Peplowski on clarinet and tenor sax; Tom Artin (also a Princeton alumnus) on trombone; Warren Chiasson on vibraphone; Keith Ingham on piano; Frank Tate on bass; and Ronnie Cole on drums, with Laurel Watson providing vocals.

For information and tickets call 683-8000.

Piano Quartet to Play Monday at Richardson

The Sunrise Piano Quartet will perform Monday at 8 in Richardson Auditorium. This is the fourth in a series of free concerts presented by the Princeton University Summer Chamber Concert Series.

The four individuals who comprise the Sunrise Piano Quartet come together from a variety of separate and successful careers to play in this ensemble. Glenn Dicterow, violin, made his debut with the Los Angeles Philharmonic at age 11. He went on to win numerous awards and competitions, including a bronze medal at the 1970 Tchaikovsky Competition in Moscow. Mr. Dicterow is in his eighth year as New York Philhamonic concertmaster.

Karen Dreyfu, viola, has received numerous prizes in the United States and abroad, including the Naumberg viola Competition (1982), the Lionel Tertis Competition (1980), the Washington International Competition (1979), and the Hudson Valley Competition (1978). Miss Dreyfus is a founding member of the Lyric Piano Quartet.

Julia Lichten, cello, received her undergraduate degree from Harvard University and her master's degree from the New England Conservatory. For the past three years, she has performed at the Marlboro Music Festival and has toured with Music from Marlboro. Ms. Lichten is a member of the American Chamber Players and the Lichten-Tao Duo.

Thomas Lorango, piano, has appeared with the Dallas Symphony, the St. Louis Symphony and the Buffalo Philharmonic, as well as making his debut at age 16 with the Philadelphia Orchestra. Mr. Lorango has received the Leventritt Foundation Award, and a Young Recitalist's Fellowship Grant from the National Endowment for the Arts, among his many musical honors.

The program will include Schubert's String Trio in B-Flat; Mozart's Piano Quartet in E Flat, K. 493; and Brahms' Piano Quartet, Opus 25.

There are two more concerts in this free summer series, which is held outdoors in the main courtyard of the Graduate College, weather permitting. The Takacs String Quartet will perform on Sunday, July 24, and the Shanghai String Quartet will perform on Sunday, July 31, both beginning at 8 p.m. Call 452-5988 for weather information on the day of the concert.

Summer Music Festival Due at Forrestal Village

On Wednesday evenings throughout the summer, Princeton Forrestal Village will present a series of free concerts for shoppers and visitors. The concerts will begin at 7 in front of Market Hall in the Village. The raindate is Thursday evenings.

This Wednesday, the Village will feature a concert by The Rivals, a contemporary rock band from the Princeton area. The group was founded in 1984 by principal songwriters Keith Allen and E.J. Johnson.

On Wednesday, July 20, The Creations will be the featured artists. A show revue band featuring music from the 1940's, 50's and 60's, the band blends vocal harmonies and choreography to produce an entertaining, high-energy show.

On July 27, Crossing Point, featuring Emmy award-winning composer Richard Reiter, will perform music in a style that can be found at the "crossing point" of many different influences, including jazz, rock, classical and Latin.

On August 3, vocalist Jeanie Bryson and her orchestra will perform a fusion of jazz, Brazilian and rhythm and blues. Ms. Bryson appears regularly at many area night clubs and was the featured artist at the 1986 Oktoberfest Celebration in New Brunswick, the State's largest outdoor fall festival.

On August 10, the Dovells, originators of the hit record The Bristol Stomp, will appear at Forrestal Village. The Dovells are Jerry Gross and Mark Stevens.

On August 17, Princeton Forrestal Village's Summer Music Festival will conclude with a gala performance by the New Jersey Pops Orchestra. The program will include all-time American favorites, from patriotic marches to the best of Broadway.

PLAYRIGHT/ACTRESS: Constance Ray does a tap-dance routine to "The Star-Spangled Banner" as Carnelle Scott in Beth Henley's "Miss Firecracker Contest," opening this Thursday at McCarter Theater. Ms. Ray is also the author of "Smoke on the Mountain," the second play in repertory in McCarter's Jambalaya July summer season.

winning the annual Fourth of July beauty and talent contest she will repair the damage to her reputation that has earned her the nickname "Miss Hot Tamale." The play, written after Ms. Henley's celebrated debut with Crimes of the Heart, is peopled with characters that are both nutty and touching.

In Repertory. In true repertory style, the actors and actresses for McCarter's Jambalaya season have roles in both plays. Courtenay Collins plays Popeye Jackson, the seamstress in Miss Firecracker who says she hears through her eyes, and also June Sanders of the circuit-riding, gospel-singing Sanders family in Smoke on the Mountain. Ms. Collins is a native of Atlanta, Ga., and has recently completed her third year of study at the Juilliard Theatre Center in New York City. She describes herself as a veteran of beauty pageants and a true southerner who grew up in a church family of Southern Baptists — two attributes, along with majoring in voice as an undergraduate, called into play in the two plays at McCarter this summer.

Linda Miles plays Carnelle's cousin Elain, a former Miss Firecracker in the first play, and Vera Sanders in the second. Ms. Miles has a number of regional theater and television appearances to her credit, and last year she played Jane Seymour in director Alan Bailey's original off-Broadway production of Henry the VIII at the Grand Ole Opry in which William Mesnik also appeared.

Mr. Mesnik plays Mac Sam, a carnival balloon salesman in Miss Firecracker and Burl Sanders in Smoke on the Mountain. Mr. Mesnik, who attended junior high school in the mid-1960's in the Princeton public school system, is a graduate of Yale Drama School who then became a member of the Actors Theatre of Louisville. He has a wide variety of roles to his credit at both places, as well as in New York, at the Kennedy Center in Washington and at the O'Neill Theatre Center in Connecticut.

Kevin Chamberlin, a 1985 graduate of the Mason Gross School of the Arts at Rutgers University, has been cast as Delmont Williams, a Don Juan and former mental patient in Miss Firecracker and as Mervin Oglethorpe, the preacher at Mt. Pleasant Baptist Church in Smoke on the Mountain. He recently created the role of John Dickens in Theatreworks/USA's workshop and production of A Charles Dickens Christmas at Town Hall in New York City.

Directed by... Robert Lanchester, McCarter associate artistic director, is directing The Miss Firecracker Contest, while Alan Bailey, a former directing intern at McCarter in 1984-85 is directing Smoke on the Mountain, which he helped Ms. Ray create. Mr. Bailey's original musical revue, Henry the VIIIth ot the Grond Ole Opry, recently had an extended run at Palsson's in New York City and was awarded the Bistro Award as Outstanding Revue of 1987.

Performances of The Miss Firecracker Contest are this Thursday through Saturday at 8, and Sunday at 7:30. The play will also run Saturday and Sunday, July 30 and 31, at 8 and 7:30, respectively. Tickets are $15, or $26 for the two plays.

Smoke on the Mountain opens Thursday, July 21, at 8, and runs Friday and Saturday, July 22 and 23, at 8; Sunday, July 24, at 7:30; and Thursday and Friday, July 28 and 29, at 8. For ticket information call 683-8000.

Eileen B. Saums,
Allied Member A.S.I.D.,
speaks on Two Rules For Furniture.

Many years ago, a man named William Morris said something about home decorating that offers a goal to strive for.

Morris said, "Have nothing in your home that you do not know to be useful or believe to be beautiful".

When you stop to think about it, those are two main rules or standards for furnishing a home — usefulness and beauty, and it gives you a starting point to keep in mind in decorating your home.

When wondering what furniture to replace or what furniture to buy, it might be a good idea to start to replace those pieces which you do not feel are as beautiful or useful as they might be.

No single statement probably ever put furniture buying into a better perspective than Morris' quote above. After all, the basic reason to have furniture is to have it give you beauty or usefulness or both.

• • •

That's the standard by which anyone should furnish, and we stand ready to help you get furnishings that will bring both beauty and convenience to you and your home. Feel free to browse here with no obligation.

Gluckman Leaving Here To Coach at Dartmouth

Dartmouth, whose fortunes in crew the past several years, have been even lower than those in football and hockey, has hired Larry Gluckman away from Princeton to revive its program.

The director of rowing and coach of the varsity heavyweight crew at the University since 1981, Gluckman has compiled an impressive record in the sport.

His best season came in 1985, when the Tigers won their first-ever Ten Eyck Trophy at the IRA Regatta in Syracuse, along with a victory in the varsity heavyweight eights. That same spring, the Orange and Black varsity finished second in both the Eastern Sprints Regatta at Worcester and the National Championship at Cincinnati. On both occasions, the Tigers were nosed out by a strong Harvard crew.

Gluckman, 41, was honored as the Eastern Rowing Association's College Coach of the Year in 1985. He also led Princeton to medals in the 1982 IRA Regatta and the Eastern Sprints in 1982, 1987 and 1988. His record in cup races at Princeton was 42-23 in seven years.

Gluckman came to Princeton in 1979 to coach the freshman heavyweights after two years in a similar post at Northeastern. He coached the Huskies to medals at the 1978 and 1979 Eastern Sprints and IRA Regattas. Prior to that he had coached at Columbia.

He was an outstanding rower in his undergraduate days at Northeastern, graduating in 1969, and later represented this country in the world championships in 1973 and 1975, and as part of the Olympic team in 1976. He received a master's degree from Columbia in 1971.

Larry Gluckman
Heading for Hanover

Currently one of five faculty members involved with the U.S. Rowing Association Coaching College, Gluckman has continued to coach on the national level. He has held numerous posts with Olympic and Pan American teams. His women's crew, four with coxswain, made a strong bid for a medal in the 1984 games at Los Angeles.

Gluckman will begin his duties at Hanover immediately, succeeding Peter Gardner, who retired in June after 31 years as Dartmouth's heavyweight rowing coach.

"We're delighted to have Larry join the Dartmouth athletic staff, said Big Green AD Ted Leland. "His background and credentials reflect a deep appreciation and commitment to the sport of rowing, Larry will bring new enthusiasm to the Dartmouth heavyweight rowing program."

Playoff Race Still Hot In County Legion League

It's going to be a humdinger — the race in the Mercer County American Legion League, that is.

No, not for first place (despite manager Rick Freeman's protestations that it is still a race, Hamilton has a lock on the league title with its 19-2 record), but the race to make the playoffs.

With six games to go in the 27-game regular season, Hamilton is in and Hightstown, Lawrence, Trenton and Mitchell Davis, all below .500, appear to be out of it. Second-place Hopewell (15-6), the surprise team in the league this season, also seems certain to nail down a playoff spot. That leaves Ewing, Broad Street Park, Bordentown and Princeton fighting to capture the three remaining spots. It is going to be a dogfight.

At the start of the final ten days of play, Ewing and BSP were tied for third at 14-7, Bordentown was a game back at 13-8 and Princeton was another game back at 12-9.

Princeton stayed in contention with 6-2 and 7-5 victories over Lawrence Saturday on the league's only doubleheader day. Bordentown and Ewing split, while Broad Street Park took two from Trenton.

In upcoming two-game series, Post 76 is scheduled to oppose Hopewell and then face Ewing in a key series Friday and Saturday, facing Post 314 on Friday at 5:45 at the Ewing High diamond and hosting Ewing Saturday at 7:30 at Moody Park. It will end its regular season with two games against cellar-dwelling Mitchell Davis.

Bordentown, closest to Princeton in the playoff race, appears to have an easier time of it: it will end its season with home-and-homes series against Hightstown, Mitchell-Davis and Trenton — all three mired in the bottom half of the league.

Triple by Brienza. In the first game against Lawrence on Saturday, Post 76 overcame a 2-0 Lawrence lead when it scored four runs in the second. A leadoff triple by Jim Brienza, who scored on a sacrifice bunt, and RBI singles by Dan Sexton and Peter Prodanov highlighted the game-winning rally. The hard-hitting Prodanov had three hits and Brienza and catcher Greg Schwartz two each to account for seven of Princeton's ten hits. Scott Lord, who blanked Lawrence after the first innning, got the win, his third against two losses.

The second victory over Lawrence was the 100th in the six-year career of Post 76 manager Larry Bender.

Princeton jumped to a 5-0 first inning lead when it capitalized on three Larwrence errors and the only hit in the inning, an RBI single by Brienza.

J.F. Glassmacher got his first win of the season on the mound, but not without some help. Tiring after five innings in which he allowed only two hits and one run, Glassmacher gave way to Dan Brienza in the sixth. Brienza was roughed up for four runs in yielding four hits and walking two. He left in favor of Mark Lee after lasting only a third of an inning. Lee shut the door, as Princeton hung on for its crucial, 7-5 win. With the sweep, Post 76 won the season's series against Lawrence, two games to one.

Split with BSP. Post 76 began the week by splitting a home-and-home series with Broad Street Park, taking the first game, 4-3, and tosing the second, 7-2. For the season, Post 76 finished 1-2 against BSP.

On Thursday, Post 313 reached Post 76 starter Kevin Durling for five runs in the third inning to take a 5-1 lead. Princeton had scored the game's opening run in the same inning and might have had more, but Sexton was thrown out at the plate to end the inning. Post 76 stranded eight runners.

Here's a surprising fact ... Although Wade Boggs is one of the top hitters in big league baseball today, leading the American League in batting in four of the last five years, he spent six full seasons in the minors before anyone would give him a chance in the majors ... Boggs played in the minors from 1976 through 1981 and wasn't protected in the minor league draft, so anybody could have had him ... The Red Sox brought Boggs up in 1982 ... He hit .349 that year and has been a great hitter ever since.

Did you know that a major league baseball manager was once replaced after just ONE game at the beginning of a season? ... It happened in 1960 when the Philadelphia Phillies lost their opening game of the year ... Manager Eddie Sawyer was then replaced by Gene Mauch.

Here's a good question for you. If you were disabled, who would continue to pay your salary?

- Your employer?
- Social Security?
- You?

One of the most amazing and little-known records in big teague baseball was set by Ed Roebuck of the Dodgers between 1960 and 1962 ... Roebuck appeared as a pitcher in 80 straight games without ever losing a game! ... During that streak, Roebuck recorded 12 victories and was never tagged with a loss in any of those 80 games.

Sexton and Ryan Douglas combined for half of Princeton's eight hits, but after the third, winning pitcher Jimmy Smith limited Post 76 to just one more run in the fourth. When Andy Petrone walked and Sexton singled to start the last inning for Princeton, Matt Cachetti came on in relief for BSP and retired the side. The loss evened Durling's record at 2-2.

The previous day at Mercer Park, Princeton bunched all four of its runs in the fifth inning to erase a 1-0 BSP lead.

Tim O'Connell led off with a single and Douglas followed with a double. Greg Papciak then singled through the infield to tie the score. With runners at the corners, Andy Petrone at the plate and BSP looking for the bunt, Bender crossed up the opposition by calling for a hit-and-run. Petrone responded by singling to right, sending Douglas home with the go-ahead run.

Post 76 added two unearned insurance runs on a pair of throwing errors by BSP catcher Frank DeMarcello. One came across when DeMarcello threw the ball into centerfield trying to nail Petrone stealing second; two outs later, Princeton scored its fourth run in the inning when DeMarcello threw the ball away trying to catch Petrone napping at third.

BSP threw a scare at Princeton when it tallied two runs in the seventh to cut Post 76's lead to one, but Tim Rumer, who went all the way on the mound for his fourth win, ended the game by strking out Gary Turner on three pitches.

Rumer fanned eight and walked two. He yielded only four hits, one a two-out triple by BSP first baseman Wayne Soley in the seventh. Princeton collected six scattered hits off losing pitcher Dennis Mulchulsky.

State Golf Open Is Set For Bedens Brook Club

The Bedens Brook Club will play host to the first major golf tournament in its 23-year history this week when a field of 129 golfers competes in the 68th New Jersey State Golf Association/First Fidelity Open Championship.

The 72-hole event will be played over the 6,610-yard, par 72 course, located off Rolling Hill Road in Montgomery Township, this Wednesday through Friday, after Tuesday's State Pro-Amateur championship prelude. Some 75 professionals and 54 amateurs are expected to compete.

The odds-on favorite to take home the $6,500 winner's share of the record $35,000 purse is David Glenz, a six-time New Jersey PGA Player of the Year. He has already won the first two major tournaments of this season, the Karsten-Ping Match-Play with a six-and-five victory over Ed Whitman of Knickerbocker and the Dodge Classic.

The 39-year-old Glenz is a former PGA Tour pro from Oregon, who left the tour in 1977 to become assistant pro at Winged Foot in Westchester County. He came to Morris County in 1981, and first won a New Jersey State Open in 1984 at his own course in Convent Station. With two major championships already under his belt this year, he is aiming to duplicate his unprecedented feat of 1986, when he won the New Jersey and Metropolitan Opens, the New Jersey PGA and the Nissan Classic. He has won each of those championships, as well as the Karsten-Ping, twice.

The biggest threat to Glenz could come from Whitman, who has won the State PGA three times and the Dodge with a record score in 1981. Others with a shot at the title include former Dodge champion Mike Burke Jr. of Mountain Ridge, Russ Helwig of Essex Fells, Jack Kiefer of the Newton Driving Range and Gary Ostrega of Colonia, who are among the seven former Open champions in the field.

Five-time State amateur champion Bob Housen of Manasquan River may have the best shot at becoming the first amateur since Billy Ziobro in 1979 to win the event. Another strong amateur in the field is Jim McGovern of Hackensack, who won the Metropolitan Open last year.

The Bedens Brook course, the most challenging in this area, is respected by Glenz. In an interview with the Newark Star Ledger, he commented, "I've played the course once in a national qualifying and it is tough. But I'd say it suits my game. For sure, the scores will not be low."

Players from Princeton area clubs entered in the event include two from Bedens Brook, Joseph J. Marucci, 3 Skyfield Drive, Hopewell Township, who is the reigning BBC champion, and Doug Schamback, the pro there. Also

Ficarro's Needs Help To Repeat in Softball

Princeton-based Steve Ficarro's Auto Body softball team, champions of the Mercer County Women's Softball League the past two years, needs help if it hopes to make it three years in a row.

With only four games left to play, Ficarro's fell a game and a half behind last week when it lost a 2-1 decision to league-leading Three Seasons. Ficarro's is currently 16-5 and Three Seasons is 17-3. Grove Plumbing, the only other team in the National Division with an outside chance, is in third place at 14-5.

Realistically, observed Ficarro's manager Bob Smyth, Three Seasons would have to be upset twice and Ficarro's would have to win all four of its remaining games just to force a tie. Added Smyth: "We have never finished lower than second and we would like to preserve that."

Ficarro's has a bye in Thursday's league action and will resume Tuesday when it opposes Vermeer North Atlantic on Tuesday at Mercer County Park.

The absence of starting vet-[illegible]n Cindy Lombardo — out [illegible] a pulled muscle injury — really hurting the team, commented Smyth. Lombardo's absence and four errors combined to bring Ficarro's down, 2-1, in the showdown last week with Three Seasons.

"Overall," recalled Smyth, "it was a pretty well-played game defensively, but we made a few errors when we shouldn't have and that helped them. And although we out-hit them, 8-5, we didn't hit in a timely fashion."

After Three Seasons had taken a 1-0 lead in the first on a walk and two hits, Ficarro's tied it in the third on singles by Cee Aerstin, Debbie Smyth and Beth Ault's RBI single. Ficarro's, which stranded seven runners in the game, could have had more but it stalled when two players were thrown out at the plate in the same inning, one on a force and another on a perfect peg from the outfield.

"We could have taken charge then but we didn't," sighed Smyth.

Three Seasons, Ficarro's longtime rival, scored the winning run in the fourth when Ficarro's committed the one error that really hurt — an overthrow that left runners at first and third with one out. After two were down, Janet Comerford fielded a grounder to short but her throw to first was in the dirt. Dee Discavage dug it out for a fine play and the runner, claimed Smyth, was out by a good step and a half.

"The ump saw the ball hit the dirt but he didn't follow the play," said Smyth. "But I can't agonize over it any more than I have all week; we shouldn't have been in that position, anyway, where one run would make a difference."

Edge Grove, 4-3. Earlier in the week, Ficarro's edged Grove Plumbing, 4-3, in a game that Smyth said was a lot closer than it should have been.

Ficarro's out hit Grove, 15-4, and received four-hit pitching from Clare Baxter, but on the debit side it left 12 on base and was guilty of four errors again.

Ault, 3-for-4 and two RBIs, and Doreen "Bip" Ragazzo, 3-for-3, led the victors' at the plate. Connecting for two hits each were Sandi Hibbs, Grace Durland and Comerford.

After completion of the 25-game regular season and barring the need for any playoff games, the post-season playoffs are scheduled to start July 28.

children." One is a writer on the staff of the Philadelphia Art Museum and the other lives near Brighton, England, with her husband and three children. Mrs. Hynes is a librarian in the Biology Library at Princeton University.

Their son-in-law is a former pilot with the Royal Air Force, and Mr. Hynes flies with him when he visits England. "I do a few loops and a couple of rolls, to see if they're still there."

Prof. Hynes has published five scholarly books on English literature, including The Auden Generation, The Edwardian Turn of Mind, and William Golding. In addition, he has edited ten books, including the three-volume Complete Poetical Works of Thomas Hardy. He is currently completing a book on the cultural history of World War I.

In 1985, he created a new interdisciplinary course at the University, "War in Literature and Art," which has been well received. In it, he explores the ways in which war is represented in novels, films, poems, diaries, and the visual arts.

Before coming to Princeton in 1976, Prof. Hynes did graduate work at Columbia University and taught at Swarthmore for 19 years and at Northwestern University for eight years.

Prof. Hynes' book came out at about the same time the movie, Biloxi Blues, was released. This is playwright Neil Simon's depiction of his alter-ego's experiences during World War II.

"They were almost exactly the same dates, and some was very evocative," said Prof. Hynes. "What called up the most powerful memories were the scenes in the barracks. During my period in flight school, I lived in a similar building."

But he pointed out that flight school was different, with the trainee neither an enlisted man nor an officer. "We were trained as a potential officer, and there was less of the imposed mindlessness. Part of the training of enlisted men is to erase independent thought. On the other hand, a pilot has to think for himself."

A Favor from a Friend. It was only by using some "pull" that the young college student ever became an aviator. Prof. Hynes signed into the aviation cadet program as soon as he could, but had to wait until he was called. (The military never knew when new pilots would be needed; it depended on how many were killed.)

"Imagine sitting around doing history of Medieval England while all your friends were away," he says. "It seemed unbelievable to be a student."

So he asked a friend, a yeoman in the Navy in Minneapolis, to put his file on top. He did. "If not for that I would never have been in because the war ended soon afterwards." (Prof. Hynes trained in the Navy, but took his commission in the Marines.)

The books that have come out of the Vietnam War, some of which are read in his interdisciplinary course at Princeton, are bitter, violent, obscene, and dark, says Prof. Hynes. Perhaps this was on the mind of one person who wrote him that, "reading your book made it seem we had the last swelt war."
